From TUESDAY June 4th, to TUESDAY June 11th, 1754.

ANNAPOLIS in MARYLAND, March 14.

LETTERS from Messrs. Trent and Gist, to Major Washington, of Virginia, give some account of their situation near the Ohio. The first letter is dated Feb 19, at Vaughyaughany big bottom. The 17th Mr. Trent arrived at the forks of Monongahela (from the mouth of Red-Stone creek, where he has built a strong store house) and met Mr. Gist and several others: In two or three days they expected down all the people, and as soon as they came were to lay the foundation of the fort, expecting to make out for that purpose about 70 or 80 men. The Indians were to join them, and make them strong. They requested him (Major Washington) to march out to them with all possible expedition. They acquaint him, that Mons. La Force had made a speech to some of our Indians and told them, that neither they nor the Indians there, would see the sun above 20 days longer; 13 of the days being then to come: By what Mr. Croghan could learn from an Indian in the French interest, they might expect 400 French down in that time: A messenger sent from the French fort had letters for the commanders of the other forts, to march immediately and join them, in order to cut off our Indians and Whites, and some French Indians were likewise expected to join them: When La Force had made his speech to the Indians, they sent a string of wampum to Mr. Croghan, to desire him to hurry the English to come, for that they expected soon to be attack'd, and pressed hard to come and join them; for they wanted necessaries and assistance. and then would strike: They farther write, that 600 French and Indians were gone against the lower Shawanese-town, to cut off the Shawanese: 200 Ottaways and Chippaways came to Muskingum, and demanded the white people there, and shewed them the French hatchet; the Wayondotts, tho' not above 30 men, refused to let them kill them in their town; but they expected every day to hear they had cut off the whites and likewise the Wayondotts. The other letter is dated at Monongahela, Feb. 23. Mr. Gist writes, "An Indian, who was taken prisoner from the Chickasaws, [illegible] the 6 nations, some years ago, has been this year to see his friends there; in his passage up the Ohio, [illegible] with a body of near 400 French coming up the [illegible] he parted with them below the falls, and then came, in company with 10 of them that were sent to treat with the Shawanese at the lower town; upon their arrival there, the English traders had agreed to make prisoners of them, but the French getting a hint from some Indians, they fled away in the night without discovering their business: We have also news of 600 French and Indians, gone down to fall on the Shawanese, if they will not admit the lower army to pass up the river to join that above; it would therefore be prudent, to let the governor know this, perhaps he might send a number of Cherokees to join the Shawanese at the lower town, and defeat them, or prevent their joining those above. Pray, send a line by Mr. Stewart, and let us know the exact time you will be here, that we may speak truth in all we say to our friends."

March 21. We have just now received intelligence from the westward, of 400 French being come down from the lakes, 100 of which stay'd about Mushingum, and the other 300 went down to the lower Shanoah-town; they have demanded the English traders that are there (about 20 in number) to be delivered up to them, which the Shanoahs have refused to do, and have sent for the Catawas to come to their assistance. These 400 French expect to be joined by 400 more, as soon as they can come down from the lakes. There are 22 French in the Loggs-town, who about 5 weeks ago, held a council with the Indians; in which they told them, "That as they had determined not to make their fire with them, but had done it with their brothers the English, they might expect to be struck, and that their brothers the English should see the sun but 20 days, and then they would destroy all the Indians:" Upon which Monocatoocka took his tommahawk out of his bosom, and said, "You have often deceived us, but now you tell us, you'll strike our brothers the English, we believe you speak truth, come on, we are ready for you, and will stand by and join our brothers against you." A few days before this council was held, the French had taken one John Patten, prisoner, which the half king hearing, went to them, and said to this effect: "We have suffered you to take our brothers often, and have taken no notice of it; but since you have the impudence to take our brother before our faces, we see your design;" upon which he went up to the French captain, and knock'd him down, and then turning to Patten, he said, "My brother, you are a free man, I discharge you, go about your business."

Williamsburg, in Virginia. March 15. We have advice from the back parts of the country, that a party of French, under the command of one Chivalrie, are come down to the Loggs-town, where they have held a treaty and made presents to the Indians, built a large oven, and are making other preparations for the reception of the troops, who they give out are to follow them in the spring; that a large body of French are likewise come up to the fall of Ohio from the Mississippi, intending to build a fort at the mouth of the Miami's river, and then proceed to join those of their nation, expected to come down the Ohio, from Canada: That the Ohio company have almost compleated their fort, and Capt. Trent, at the charge of this government, has begun another.

Boston, in New-England, April 1. We have very good intelligence, that 8000 troops, with their wives and children, were sent from France to America in the year 1752, viz. 2,500 to Canada, 3,500 to Mississippi, and 2,000 to St Domingo; and that those troops are arrived at their several places of destination. —— From this intelligence, and the certain accounts that we have of the incroachments of the French, both from Canada and Mississippi, upon his majesty's territories, back of the present settlements of the Southern colonies, the forts they are every where building, their having engaged three large tribes of Indians living upon the lakes, to take up the hatchet against the English, added to their incroachments upon Nova-Scotia, and the new fort they are now building near Kennebeck river, within this province, contrary to the most solemn treaties, and all done since the late peace; it is very easy to penetrate the designs of the French, and without the spirit of prophecy to foretell, that if there is not a vigorous and united opposition effectually to prevent it, they will, in a few years, lay a solid and lasting foundation, for making themselves in time masters of all America.

Philadelphia, May 2. The schooner Argo, Capt. Swaine, is sail'd on the second attempt for the discovery of the North West Passage.

To the Printers of the GAZETTE.

As the following extract of a letter, from a gentleman residing in one of the colonies to the Northward, contains a more full and exact account of the armament sent last summer from Canada, and of the pernicious measures now carrying on and the French settling on Ohio, than any I have as yet seen published, your inserting this in your next week's paper, may perhaps be agreeable to more of your readers, than, Yours, &c.

"——, April 8th 1754.

"——— I AM extremely sorry to hear, that the governments of Pennsylvania and Maryland, have not view'd the incroachments of the French in their proper light; or, if they have, that they won't exert themselves at this time of imminent danger. Should the French once gain a settlement on Ohio, they will then have great advantages over the Southern colonies, as must be obvious to every person the least acquainted with their situation. In time of peace between the two crowns, they will be continually spiriting on the Indians in their alliance, to murder and scalp the inhabitants of your back counties in order to prevent the extension of your back settlements; and, in time of war, how easy will it be for a number of troops, collected from their several forts, or perhaps sent from Old France for that purpose, to make a descent upon some or other of the colonies. What then must be the consequence!—Unarmed, and disunited as you are, will you be able to repel the invaders, or prevent their ravaging or laying waste your country, or hinder them from committing their too well known barbarities on such of your inhabitants as may fall within their power? The evil day may be a while put off, but sooner or later it will surely come, unless you rouze from the lethargy you seem at present in, and make use of those means to protect yourselves which the almighty has put in your power; the most proper way of doing which is, to obstruct those incendiaries, the French and their Indians, from settling in your frontiers. By an hearty union of the colonies, and proper management, we might, with little assistance from our mother country, not only dislodge the French from Ohio, but from Quebec itself. But to send 3 or 400 men against 5 times their number, can answer no other end than to expose us to the contempt of our Indian allies, who will think themselves obliged to quit the interest of those that seem unable to protect them. —— You desire me to acquaint you with what I hear that may be depended on, concerning the designs of the French, in sending so large a number of troops from Canada as they did the last summer. In answer to which I can inform you, that I have lately seen Mr B——r, who was at Oswego at the time their forces passed by that fort; who says, he learnt by sundry deserters, and others, that Mons. du Quisne, the new governor general of Canada, a young gentleman formerly captain of a man of war, declares, he will have a French fort on each of the waters that empty themselves into St. Lawrence, or Mississippi; that he believes the late governors of Canada have been all asleep, but that he will make every officer under him know his duty, and do it.—That 4 or 5 detachments were, during the last summer, sent from Canada to the Ohio, making in the whole about 2000, besides Indians, under the command of Mons. Morin (or Morang, as some call him) whose knowledge of the Indians recommended him to the new governor for that office. The detachment that accompanied Morin, consisted of about 40 or 50 large bateaus, and canoes, many of them supposed to carry more than 30 men; they sailed within musket shot of Oswego, without ever striking their colours, and had their trumpets blowing, drums beating, &c. This was in sight of many of the six Nations, and foreign Indians, who could not sufficiently express their surprise at such an armament, and asked whether the English and French were not at peace.—Some of these troops returned to Canada during the winter, to quarters, but great part of them were left, as is supposed, at the forts on and near the lakes, to be ready to go down the Ohio early in the spring: Those that returned had with them the Pennsylvania Indian traders so often mentioned to be taken by the French on Ohio; these poor wretches were in irons, and lodged a night within a few miles of Oswego. One of the famous chiefs of the Cahuga nation, proposed to some of the traders to attack the French, and recover the prisoners, but they could not muster a sufficient party to do this.—Monsr. Morin built 2 or 3 forts, but many disputes arising between him and his officers, together with a severe fit of the gout, obliged him to desire to quit his command; for which purpose an express was last September sent to Canada, and I suppose the gentleman who writes to governor Dinwiddie was made his successor, who, if he exceeds Morin as much in humanity, as he does in politeness and good sense, may be of service to those who may have the misfortune of being taken prisoners in that country. —— I saw Morin, and his son, some years ago in Canada; they have all the vain airs of the French, joined with the savageness of the Indians, without the least of the politeness of the former, or native simplicity and gaudiness of the latter. The son in her commanded when the brave Donahew, captain of one of the Bullock sloops, was decoyed who was killed; the son was one of his party: As trophies of their victory, the old man shewed me a tobacco pouch, which he, and the young brute let me know was made of the skin of poor Donahew's arm: The father had also Donahew's ring, which the son acquainted me he cut off the finger to get, as it would so come off easily. After this, I saw some of Donahew's men who were prisoners, they not only confirmed the above, but assured me, the brutish father did himself cut off several pieces of their dead captain's flesh, and threw them into the fire, and encouraged the Indians to do the like; and when they were roasted, the cannibal son, and sundry Indians, tore them with their teeth. —— This may serve as a specimen of the neighbours you are like to have."

New York, May 6. The general assembly of Boston have passed an act for the levying of soldiers, for the better security of his majesty's subjects inhabiting the eastern frontiers of that province, from any attempts that may be made on that quarter; and his excellency governor Shirley has issued a proclamation to encourage the inlisting of volunteers for that service.

Philadelphia, May 9. By several vessels from Barbados we have advice, that a French man of war of 36 guns, had been there, to demand satisfaction of an English man of war, for taking some wood from a French sloop at Tobago; but the English man of war not being there, and the president not giving him the satisfaction he wanted, he declared he would take satisfaction by seizing English vessels.

New-York, May 13. The making an establishment on the river Ohio, is no new or partial scheme of the French, merely for the sake of trade, or a settlement on the lands, but a thing long ago concerted, and only part of a grand plan for rendering themselves masters of North-America. That this plan has been concerted, laid before the court of France, and met with its highest approbation in the year 1689; and has engaged the constant attention of that court ever since, is openly avowed in their printed works. 'Tis felt too in their actions, and disguised no where but in their most solemn treaties, and the sacred engagements of their faith. —— The whole plan may be seen in the 12th book of father Charlevoix's general history of New-France. The first step to be taken is, (garder les principaux postes du Pais) to fortify and garrison all the principal passes in the country. This part of the plan they have effected, in this year, 1754. The part of this scheme which they are now executing, was first laid down in the year 1721. Nov. 8. 'There is 'not, says father Charlevoix, in all Louisiana, a spot 'more proper for a settlement than this on the Ohio, 'nor where it is of greater importance to the French 'to have one. The whole country that is washed by

' the rivers Ouabach and Ohio, is moſt fertile; there ' are vaſt paſtures finely watered, where the wild cat- ' tle graze by thouſands; beſides, the communication ' with Canada is, this way, much eaſier, better, and ' infinitely ſhorter, than thro' the river of the Illinois: ' A fort with a good garriſon here, would be a com- ' plete and ſufficient curb on the Indians in general; ' but above all, on the Cherokee's, at preſent the moſt ' numerous nation on the continent. ' The next ſtep is to become maſters of Albany, the river Hudſon, and New-York. There is no other way (ſays the chevalier de Callieres, in the memorial and plan which he pre- ſented to the court of France) for the preſervation of Canada, but to render the king maſter of New-York: ' The abſolute neceſſity of doing this, renders it law- ' ful and juſtifiable.' And it was propoſed at the court of France, ' as the only meaſure to compleat ' and ſecure the ſettlement of Canada; to conquer, ' and ſecure the conqueſt of the Indians, and make ' them ſue for peace on any conditions the French ' ſhall pleaſe to impoſe on them. ' The ſtate of ſeve- ral places that are propoſed for this enterprize: The means and manner in which they are to be executed: The eaſe and ſmall expence with which the French are ſenſible they can effect them: And the deplorable ſtate which the country, and the ruin'd poor inhabi- tants, are to be reduced to upon the conqueſt, may all be read in fair black and white; together with the meaſures which the French are to purſue in the mean while, 'till all be ripe for the execution. When they can cajole the Engliſh, or have reaſon to know they will ſit ſtill, then to attack the five nations: When they can perſuade the Indians to keep their arms un- der their blankets, then to attack the Engliſh.——— Sous prétexte d'aller faire la guerre aux Iroquois, et lors que je ſerai arrivé dans leur pais, je leur declarerai que je veux bien vivre avec eux, et que je n'en veux qu'aux Anglois—Surtout de garder un grand ſecret, et de bien couvrir—Sous les pretextes, qu'il jugeront les plus convenable et les plus plauſibles. And this while to uſe any diſguiſe or pretexts, that will be received as probable or plauſible.

Laſt wedneſday his majeſty's ſhip Centaur, Archi- bald Kennedy, Eſqr commander, having on board two of the independent companies that were poſted in this province, bound to Virginia, fell down to the watering place; but the arrival of his majeſty's ſloop Swan, from Antigua, with the hon. George Digges on board, to ſupercede Capt. Kennedy in the com- mand of the above ſhip, will probably retard the tranſ- portation of the forces for ſome days.
